

Appendix to Anne Marit Sand, Britt Viola Danielsen, Oddvar Førland, Eirik Abildsnes, Jan Henrik Rosland. Expected deaths at home – a qualitative study of collaboration.
Tidsskr Nor Legeforen 2020; 140. doi:
10.4045/tidsskr.19.0773.

This appendix is a supplement to the article and has not undergone editorial revision.

Table 2. Questions for regional leaders of firms of undertakers and leaders of A&E clinics

Topic	Questions for undertakers	Questions for A&E clinics
Verification and death certificate	Who (GP or A&E clinic) usually verifies the death and completes the death certificate?	Who (GP or A&E clinic) usually verifies the death and completes the death certificate in case of deaths that are reported to the GPs' office during opening hours?
		Who (GP or A&E clinic) usually verifies the death and completes the death certificate in case of deaths that are reported outside the GPs' office hours?
	When the A&E clinic verifies the death, is this done in the deceased person's home / at the place of death, or does it happen that the deceased person is transported to the A&E clinic or another place for verification and completion of the death certificate?	When the A&E doctor verifies the death, is this done in the deceased person's home / at the place of death, or does it happen that the deceased person is transported to the A&E clinic or another place for verification and completion of the death certificate?
Collaboration with A&E clinic / undertaker	What is your experience of the collaboration with the A&E clinic?	How does your A&E clinic experience the collaboration with the undertakers?
Suggestions for improvements	What improvements would you like to see?	